General Mills Helps Out Boys and Girls Club

On Tuesday, December 17th General Mills helped to make the holidays brighter for our Northeast Frankford members. General Mills volunteers purchased, wrapped and distributed toys to all the Boys & Girls at the Club. General Mills has been a great friend to the Northeast Frankford Club and always helps to make our members smile!

The Frankford Gazette needs volunteer reporters and writers. Do it for the community. Learn some new skills for yourself and help our community at the same time.

Frankford Friends City Planners

From Facebook

Our fourth graders have become city planners! It was a pleasure to attend their presentation of Box City, a tremendous scale model of a more sustainable Frankford. Impressive does not begin to describe the great work and learning that took place in this project. Here's a look at their process.

During their research phase, they went on an observational walk of Frankford to survey the built environment, spent time with the Philadelphia City Planners, learned about zoning maps and resource placement, and investigated the many elements that a city requires to function. In groups, they drew up design proposals and then came together as a class for a community planning meeting where each group presented their designs and the community of mock citizens approved or added suggestions. Individually, each student did research on sustainable housing and then built their own eco houses to add to the neighborhood.

To assemble, the class collected 350 cardboard boxes at home. They sorted the boxes by size, made a zoning map of the neighborhood to plan out where to put each building, and learned how to scale the buildings. The boxes were painting and glued down and other elements like solar powered trash compactors, an Art Park, and The Frankford Free Garden were added. All of this was achieved with cardboard, scissors, tape, hot glue, paint, markers, paper, pencil, and, of course, #otterlyawesome brains!!

@ Frankford Friends School

OP-Ed from Harold Miller Jr.

I am a senior currently attending Julia R. Masterman high school. Recently, I have begun to look into who represents me on a political level. This has lead me to discover Jason Dawkins, the State Representative for the 179th Legislative District of Philadelphia. As a State Representative, Dawkins has the power to pass and vote on different pieces of legislation which directly impact my community. While researching Dawkins, I have found that we share similar views on multiple different societal issues; for example, raising the minimum wage, limiting the availability of firearms, and increasing funding for certain Philadelphia public schools. As a senior in high school currently applying for college, I wholeheartedly agree with Dawkins' stance on these subjects, as I believe both of these ideas would be beneficial to me as I move into adulthood. Despite this, there are still areas within politics where I find myself disagreeing with some of Dawkins' political decisions.

Over the past few years, there has been a rapid rise in gun violence within schools across the nation. This has lead to an increase in pressure towards public school administrations as they try to implement new systems in order to ensure the safety of their students during the school day. The frequency of these events has lead the public to become more vocal towards this subject, leading many to propose solutions on ways to prevent such tragedies from reoccurring. One idea which has recently rose to popularity is the idea of improving the overall quality of school security by requiring certain training credentials as well as arming school security guards.

Since his election, Dawkins has been a strong advocate against gun violence within Philadelphia. However, while researching Dawkins, it came to my attention that in regards to Senate Bill 621, which is a bill that would allow the arming of security guards and require school security to present certain credentials annually to hold their position, he was one of the many Democrats who voted against its passage. Knowing Dawkins' political track history, I find this act contradictory as I fail to see why he would argue against this bill. Dawkins, being a very vocal figure in the fight against gun violence, has made many actions in the past to improve security within schools. On October 24, 2018, he announced a school safety grant for Mastery Charter school, which would go towards security related equipment, such as metal detectors, identification systems, surveillance equipment, etc.. Within this same announcement, he stated that "children and parents should never have to fear whether or not they will return from school", and that these grants will "help provide a safe and healthy environment for our children to learn, and teachers to teach". I believe that the passing of Senate Bill 621 would have helped immensely in the achievement of the goals Dawkins set out in this announcement, which leads me to wonder what reasoning Dawkins has for his vote on this bill.

While I may disagree with Dawkins on this specific subject, I am very grateful for what he has done within my community. I will continue to follow and support Dawkins' political movements as I believe he is truly working to improve our city.

Town Watch

City of Philadelphia Town Watch Program: Local Neighborhood Volunteers Needed

Safety minded neighbors help create safe neighborhoods. That concept underlies the formation of our Town Watch Program.

Town Watch volunteers serve as trained “eyes and ears” for the City of Philadelphia Police Department. They routinely patrol their neighborhood streets keeping alert for suspicious activity. Our Town Watch volunteers do not confront suspects; instead, they are asked to immediately report the suspicious activity to the police department via cellular phones.

All of our town watch members receive training in safe effective patrol procedures and observation techniques.

The City of Philadelphia Town Watch Integrated Services fully supports Town Watch groups and can help neighbors interested in forming a new Town Watch group.

Even without a Town Watch, all residents can help improve security in our community by becoming an alert neighbor. No one knows your street or your neighborhood, better than you and your fellow neighbors. The Philadelphia Police Department encourages all residents to report any suspicious activity to the Police Department by dialing 9-1-1. Callers can even remain anonymous.

The City of Philadelphia Police Department needs the public’s help and support, so together we can ensure that our community remains a great place to live, visit and work.

If you are interested in forming a new Town Watch Group, please contact Gregory Bucceroni City of Philadelphia Town Watch Integrated Services @ 215 686-1459 and/or email at Gregory.Bucceroni@phila.gov

Stay Strong

There comes a time in everyone's life,
Whether you go left, or you go right,
You will still feel the pain.
STAY STRONG.

The loss of a loved one,
The loss of a child,
And airplanes falling out of the sky,
STAY STRONG.

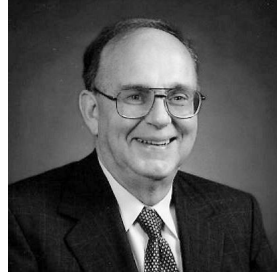

Tornadoes walking over mountains high,
Wildfires blowing out of control,
Snow so high you can't see the road,
And rain coming down with nowhere to go,
STAY STRONG.

Sometimes life is out of control,
But you must stand fast and get a hold,
STAY STRONG

Tomorrow could be a brighter day,
Whether you're right,
or whether you're wrong,
You will still feel the pain,
STAY STRONG

Jim Young, Historical Society President

Jim Young, long time President of the Historical Society of Frankford passed away on December 13th. The most obvious achievement during his tenure was the significant improvements made to the building. He was always present and willing to explore new opportunities to promote the society. He will certainly be missed by his friends and colleagues.

From the web site of Kain-Murphy Funeral Services:

On Dec. 13, 2019, Age 78 of Cinnaminson, NJ; Beloved husband of 50 years to Vi.
